

ABSTRACT

The present invention is directed to a corner trim assembly for walls including first and second polymer pieces which are welded together to form an angled joint for slidably receiving trim pieces at the corners of walls without the use of nails, adhesives or other fasteners.